Teaching Artist opportunity:

The Broward Center for the Performing Arts in Fort Lauderdale, FL is seeking creative and dynamic Teaching Artists for part-time, seasonal, freelance opportunities. We are looking for qualified teachers in the fields of acting/improv, musical theater dance and musical theater singing to teach weekly classes, facilitate workshops and provide arts instruction for the Rose Miniaci Arts Education Center. Classes will are offered to students ages 3 years old – adults. Please specify what fields(s) and age group(s) you are most qualified to teach.

"The Broward Center's education programs are reaching new heights as learning through the arts comes alive in the new Rose Miniaci Arts Education Center. The facility, which opened in the fall of 2014, houses classrooms and a coaching studio, integrated technologies for distance learning and the JM Family Studio for teaching, rehearsals, recitals and intimate performances".

Teaching Artists will possess the following:

- Experience in musical theater including: musical theater dance, acting, playwriting, theater improvisation, vocal coaching and musical theater singing.
- BA, BS or BFA in Theatre, Music, Education, or any equivalent combination of training and experience 3+ years of experience working as a Teaching Artist or Classroom Teacher in a Arts education organization.
- Strong dedication to established work commitments
- Ability to develop lesson plans and curriculum outlines for classes taught
- Commitment to providing high quality theater education with focus on skills building and content.
- Strong collaborator and team player

Please submit the following to teachingartist@browardcenter.org :

- Resume highlighting both performing artist and arts education experience
- Cover letter in which you define your philosophy of arts education, describe your personal teaching style and state 3-5 core objectives for your classes
- Example of a lesson plan for a 50-minute class in your discipline.

Pay: Competitive and based on ability and experience.